Where local talents unite for global development

Talent for Governance provides scholarships to young, talented and motivated civil servants from developing and transitional countries. With these scholarships, the civil servants can follow training courses in the Netherlands so that they can develop their knowledge and skills in the field of local governance. The scholarships give them the opportunity to meet colleagues from abroad as well as to learn from experiences in other countries. In this way, Talent for Governance not only contributes to their individual development but also invests in the sustainable and structural improvement of living conditions in their communities.

The Talent for Governance Network connects civil servants worldwide. In this online community, they can share experiences and knowledge about their work in local governance. The support and advice that civil servants give each other will help them to deal with challenges in their work and to improve local governance practices.
